L. III. PORTLAND OREGON: SATURDAY MORNING JANUARY 9 1864. NO. 286

AYER'S
CHERRY
ECTORAL,
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF
Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

B MOLTFEY ... ... writes: ... PECTORAL myself ... and in my family ... I have used ... best medicine for its purpose ever sent ... than do without it ... or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

...rother Ayer. I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people. HIRAM CONKLIN, M.

...mos Lee, Esq. Monterey, ... writes, 3d Jan 1856: ... a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks ... many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA. Fe. 4,

Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merch

A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, MONROE CO. IOWA, writes, ... 6, 1856: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients or curing such as are curable."

...might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

...bably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach, but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856. ...tor Ayer, Lowell: I feel it my duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be but is free from her cough and calls herself well. Yours, with gratitude and regard, ORLANDO SHELBY, of Shelbyville.

...sumptives do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all round us bespeak the high merits of its virtues. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

...e sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed to their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the everyday complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures of the following complaints: —

...veness, Billous Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, ... Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, ...ency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

...be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER,
...ical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell

The Union voters of the various Counties of the State of Oregon who are in favor of the continued and vigorous prosecution of the present war to the complete and final suppression of rebellion and extinction of treason and in favor of hearty and efficient support of the authorities of the General Government in their efforts to protect and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States and preserve and perpetuate the Union, and who are willing to unite for the election of men of like principles to all offices in this State, are respectfully and earnestly invited to hold conventions according to usual custom for election of delegates to a State Union Convention to be held at Albany, in Linn county on Wednesday the 30th day of March, 1864 for the purpose of nominating candidates for Representative to Congress and State Printer, electing delegates to the National Union Convention and providing for the selection of candidates for Presidential Electors, and transacting such other business as the Convention shall deem proper

More Revelations.

We quoted yesterday the concluding extracts of a recent speech made by Robert Toombs in Georgia, but some other portions of it are so full of woful significance, that we cannot refrain from placing them before our readers. In spite of the pretence of belief the rebel cause will in the end be victorious, there is clearly manifested in every paragraph, despondent fears that the Confederacy is doomed and must shortly be destroyed. "I wish," said Toombs, "I could tell you the sky is bright, but stern duty demands of me, in all proper and manly response to your invitation, to tell you rather truthful things" And then he reviews the situation

> Maryland was loyal—is loyal to this day—but she is crushed and is powerless now to break off the shackles by which she is bound Kentucky is in the hands of the enemy She was betrayed and lost by the blunders of some of her sons, and the treachery of others Missouri though divided and full of disloyalty to her hopes and her destiny, though surrounded by the power of the enemy, without local government, is still heroically struggling for liberty and independence Tennessee is over run, and the Mississippi, from the Falls of St Anthony to the the Balize, is in the hands of the enemy, thus cutting in twain the great Valley of the Mississippi The fall of Vicksburg inflicted this terrible blow upon us and it fell with scarce a blow in its defense A portion of Virginia has also been lost to us, our Islands are lost, our coasts are ravaged, and our sea ports captured or threatened The enemy besieges Charleston, and recently have set their vandal feet upon the soil of our own State, though Chickamauga warns them of what reception they may expect upon a repetition of the experiment I cannot therefore tell you that the skies are bright—we have a great work to do, we have great sacrifices to make * * The conduct and valor of our troops must finally overcome their afflictions if they can be kept in the field Here is our present danger—we need courage and conduct, vigor and ability now, in the civil as much as in the military service, of our country We find that our finances have fallen into disorder, that public credit has fallen so low that the Government finds itself practically unable to support it with our military establishment, without a method of collecting supplies inconsistent with the fundamental law of the land, the inalienable rights of a free people, and in my judgment, inconsistent with the public safety, and dangerous to our cause This policy is rapidly producing its legitimate fruits We find discontent is taking the place of enthusiasm, and distrust is supplanting confidence The cause of these evils must be remedied

And then as if to add without mercy to the anxiety and discouragements of his rebel audience, the orator proceeds to enumerate the serious and unpardonable blunders of Davis and his confederates in treason—one of which is thus denounced

> When Congress determined to support our armies by impressments, gathering supplies whenever they found them most convenient and forcing them from those from whom their agents might choose to take them, in violation of the fundamental principles of our constitution, which require all burdens to be uniform and just, and paying for them such prices as they choose, they made a fatal blunder which can not be persisted in without endangering our cause and probably working ruin to the Government The moment they departed from the plain rule laid down in the Constitution—that of private property should only be used in cases where absolute necessity required them—they laid the foundation for discontent among the people, they discouraged labor, and incorporated a principle, which is not only in violation of the Constitution but fatal to rights of property The Constitution cannot be dispensed with in time of war, any more than in time of peace It is is overthrown, we are already conquered
> When the Government seeks to levy its supplies through commissaries or other agents, by impressment, instead of entering the market, as others do, and purchasing them it deprives the people of the right which they claim of bearing their just proportion of the burdens, as well as of the benefits of the Government The wisdom of twenty centuries is against this policy, and I here affirm that it will not support the army, and will ruin the Republic Already it has deprived many of their honest earnings and left their families in penury, want and dependance, and I call on you to right them [Applause] Such a system has never been pursued with profit to the country from the time of Alexander the Great down to the present time Gen Scott did not practice it even in the heart of the enemy's country From the whole of his march from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico he obtained his supplies by purchases, and obtained them plentifully while our armies, which depend for their support on impressments have often been upon half rations, all over the country, even where provisions were abundant There are said to be 9 000,000 of people in our Confederacy There are 1 100 000, black and white in our own State, all provisions are ample for the support of all, if they were only distributed, and yet the course which has been pursued in obtaining supplies for the army has already [illegible] even in the midst of plenty [illegible] in the name of the Constitution and of justice I have come to protest against it

The confession of weakness and despair which runs through the whole speech, cannot but be apparent to all Southern people could not help feeling as they listened to Toombs, that his words were more like the judgment sentence, deserved by them for their wicked treason, than like the rallying cry of a leader who wished to encourage them to nobler and more unselfish deeds, in behalf of their country We hope and shall expect, as a consequence of this and similar talk, now being uttered with more boldness every day that confidence in the rebel leaders will be greatly impaired and that those whose passionate prejudice will allow them to reflect, will by degrees be led to the wholesome conclusion, that neither liberty, life or property are safe under a bastard government like that of the rebellion Respect for it and confidence being gone, contempt will speedily follow and it requires no very sagacious prophet to foresee jealousies and hates, which will consume the conspirators—a just sacrifice to the popular wrath of a deluded and ruined community

PORTLAND AND LAFAYETTE MAIL ROUTE —Complaints have been made to us by Mr A Howe, United States Mail carrier over the above route, that there is an absence of the bridges requisite to a performance of the service within schedule time during the winter season In many places, also owing to road taxes being worked out late in the fall, deep and impassable mud holes at some points absolutely endanger not only the mails but the lives of the animals upon which they are carried Between this city and Hillsboro, there is a lack of bridges over streams which cannot be safely forded during the highest stage of water From that point to Forest Grove, at Tualitan crossing, the distance between the bluffs, some 400 yards, is navigable for large boats, but absolutely dangerous for animals Beyond Forest Grove water covers the low lands for more than 200 yards mid side deep to animals This place can only be made permanently passable by piking a corduroy causeway, at a little trouble and expense The crossing of the second branch of Tualatin is reached through a low timbered region, over which, for 150 yards, animals are compelled to swim at high water. It would be economy to bridge this spot the entire distance the material being abundant in the immediate vicinity The work in the road thence to Lafayette is very poorly done, and is but little better than if not done at all This is a rule, to which there are, of course, some few creditable exceptions We have entered into these details at the request of Mr Howe, who hopes to awaken the citizens of the localities referred to to a discharge of duty in keeping in order the mail roads of their respective districts The Postmaster General has a right to change a mail road when impediments are proved to exist through the negligence of citizens adjoining whose farms or property the road is laid out, and these impediments are proved upon a failure of the mails by the production of mail carriers certificates that the roads were from any cause impassable

The future prosperity of land owners along a mail route should prompt them to a little present outlay in order to render the location of a route permanent, and we hope such action will be taken by them as will insure a safe and regular transmission of the mails Of course it is not expected or required that in a country new like ours, a splendid Macadamized road should be constructed for any distance to accommodate a branch of the public service simply, but it is a fact verified by experience, that every dollar expended upon our public highways pays a better interest than if loaned out at three per cent providing a sufficient sum is laid out to secure a good road The farmer who brings his produce to market knows all this, without being told of it, through the columns of a public journal

IS THE GOVERNMENT SOLVENT? —One of the most common attacks upon the Government on the part of Northern rebels is based upon their pretended want of confidence in its solvency Now they know that every dollar's worth of taxable property in the United States is liable for the debts, created by Congress, they know that this liability can be evaded only by repudiation, which is taxation in its most absurd, severe and iniquitous form, and they know that the debt is so widely diffused in bonds and currency, among all classes that all are interested in keeping it of value Yet knowing all this, the attempt is constantly made to breed disaffection, to poison the popular mind and depreciate the currency We are told that it rests on nothing but the delusion of the people—the Secretary of the Treasury is denounced as a swindler on a gigantic scale, who is flooding the land with insolvent promises, which can never be paid How false this is, will appear when we remember that the debt is based on a capital, pledged for its payment, amounting to more than twelve thousand millions of dollars and that if not paid, it will be because this vast capital is consumed in some unexampled crash, which may destroy all the wealth of the continent—a catastrophe not likely to happen till the last day comes

SMART —Down East somebody advertised to all the papers, "portraits of Gen Jackson engraved under the patronage of Congress, for twenty five cents each " When the money was sent the crafty advertiser sent a two cent postage stamp which is a very poor likeness of the Old Hero but it was published by authority of Congress An investigation was made, and the trick was traced to a school boy, sixteen years old, who said he was testing the truth of the common saying that advertising will insure success He had received about six hundred dollars when his promising speculation was nipped in the bud That boy, if he lives, will be likely to make one of the best contractors on the continent

The Victory of South Carolina in 1833.

The Loyal Publication Society have lately issued a very interesting paper by Judge John Mason Williams, ex Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in Massachusetts It is a brief account of the Nullification Controversy of 1832-3, and is intended to show that South Carolina, and not General Jackson, was the victor And the Chief Justice shows what he intends, as appears from a very simple statement

On the 24th of November 1832, the South Carolina Convention passed the Nullification Ordinance making it the duty of the Legislature to arrest the operation of the tariff of 2nd South Carolina after the 1st of February, 1833 The Convention also issued an address to the other sovereign States, stating that in its desire to preserve the Union, South Carolina would make certain concessions—which were in substance that it would allow Congress to pass a revenue but not a protective tariff This address was sent to the President and to the Governors Judge Williams quotes the replies of seventeen of the twenty three States which with the exception of that of Virginia, vehemently denounce the South Carolina doctrine The other six are Rhode Island Vermont Tennessee Missouri Kentucky and Louisiana Of their action he has no record at hand

The Act of Nullification reached President Jackson early in December He acknowledged its receipt on the 10th in the famous proclamation written by Edward Livingston But in his annual Message of the 4th after the threats of South Carolina had been openly made he recommended that the tariff be reduced to the revenue standard On the 12th of February, 1833 Mr Clay's Compromise bill was introduced, which was intended to raise no more revenue than was necessary for the economical support of the Government Mr Calhoun, incarnate nullification immediately approved it Mr Robbins, the scholarly Senator from Rhode Island said,

> We offer her [South Carolina] this bill, not to renounce this power [of nullification] but to refrain from its exercise at present If this precedent is to govern where the security for the stability of the Union is I cannot see " Mr Choate, of Massachusetts said, "You suppress nullification — by just promptly granting—all it demands

Meanwhile troops were raising in South Carolina and Congress passed the "Force Bill," while it was hastening to yield the point in dispute After that was yielded, on the 11th of March, the South Carolina Convention met again It congratulated itself upon its attitude of resistance to the Government, by which it had procured a modification of the tariff of 1832 even before it took effect The Convention therefore repealed the Nullification Act, which had achieved its purpose But it declared the Force Bill null and void within the State, and that act of nullification was never repealed, revoked, or modified

Thus according to Judge Williams, who supports his point by ample historical citations, the tariff of 1832 was modified by Congress under a threat from South Carolina That the Government was authorized to compel the execution of the laws is of no importance, in view of the fact that the attitude of resistance had been assumed and the day named for revolt to begin Under such circumstances to change a law is to surrender the dignity, the honor, and the power of the Government If the present Administration had abandoned Sumter before the 12th of April, 1861, it would have done exactly what the Administration of 1832 did Both said to South Carolina, 'you will fire at your peril " But the one hastened to do what Carolina wanted before she had a chance to fire, the other calmly did its own duty, and has turned the traitorous fire of South Carolina against her own heart There has been a great deal of sighing for Gen Jackson since this war begun Gen Jackson was a resolute soldier but this war demanded a wise man —Harper's Weekly

HENRY WARD BEECHER —Our eastern exchanges of almost every name offer their praise and congratulations to Henry Ward Beecher for his noble championship of our national cause in England The Baptist Examiner commences a column with these ardent words

RAW HIDE —How few persons know the value of raw hides It seems almost strange to see them sell all their dovon skins for the small sum of about 10 or 10 cents Take a strip of well tanned raw hide an inch wide and a horse can hardly break it by pulling back—two of them cannot break any way Cut into narrow strips and shave the hair off with a sharp knife to use for bag strings, the strings will outlast two sets of bags Farmers know how perplexing it is to lend bags and have them returned minus strings It will outlast hoop iron (common) in any shape, and is stronger It is good to wrap around a broken thill—better than iron Two sets of raw hide halters will last a man's life time—if he don't live too long In some places the Spaniards use raw hide log chains to work their cattle with, cut into narrow strips and twisted together, hawser fashion It can be tanned so that it will be soft and pliable, like harness leather

A New York paper says "if anything can ever induce us to pronounce in favor of a military despotism it will be the increasing riches the increasing insolence and the increasing rowdyism of our shoddy aristocrats "

Don't be afraid of radicalism if it is unreasonable, it will soon kill itself, while if opposed, it is sure to win sympathy and gain strength

REDINGTON & CO, Sole Agents, 416 and 418 Front street San Francisco, and for sale by all Druggists

THERE is no other way to cure disease but by first purifying the whole system so as to create a healthy circulation.

The first medical men of the age agree with us that disease of any extent can be cured only by using such medicines as will act directly upon the blood Why many medical men have failed to cure chronic diseases is because the medicines used have not been such as will act beneficially on the blood

The many thousands of bottles which have been used by the public, and the many gallons and barrels supplied to the physicians, warrant us in saying that the last two years we have been more successful with our Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup in curing hopeless cases of chronic diseases than have any other remedies in the hands of physicians before the public

It is now admitted that no combination known to the profession, acts as promptly upon disease as our SCOVILL'S BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP

MORE WATER —The Portland Water Company have now about a mile of six inch pipe laid from Balch's Creek toward the reservoir The water is represented as excellent, and it is the intention of the Company to supply such a quantity for city use from that source alone that under no imaginable circumstances it can be exceeded by the demand The head will be so great that by means of hose attached to hydrants, it can be forced over the highest buildings in the city. As early as practicable in the spring, a new and immense reservoir will be constructed on some eminence near the Academy, and that once completed, we shall be possessed of an inexhaustible store of as pure mountain water as any city in the world

PREPARATIONS FOR SLEIGHING TO-DAY —We understand that the livery stable keepers yesterday employed a force in breaking up a track on the MacAdamized road, for a distance of six miles, in order to secure a good sleighing road out of the city for to day. We also understood that Mr. Campbell, proprietor of the White House, had been solicited to open his establishment this morning for the entertainment of guests We did not learn whether he had consented to do so, but have no doubt that all who travel the road to day will have a good time

HORN OF A DILEMMA.—In a local yesterday we unwittingly conveyed an erroneous impression by stating that a social party took a "horn all round." The expression should at the time have been qualified, in order to protect those interested from an unjust imputation They were composed chiefly of tin, with an occasional specimen of finely painted wood, and while we are not disposed gratuitously to puff anybody's stock in trade, we would add that any one can take a dozen just such at any of the toy shops, and go home sober, providing they pay more than they are worth.

YESTERDAY was a day of brilliant enjoyment to those who love sleigh riding, and every conceivable structure which could be found as an apology for the absence of a sled was put in requisition. We are told that the more neatly gotten up affairs rented for $5 an hour, so we concluded to wait until warm weather, and enjoy ours when the demand is not so great for that kind of conveyance. All sorts and sizes of bells blended their peals with merry laughter, the boys were joyous in their sliding sports, and everybody smiled. Even the mercury rose in the general elevation of spirits.

THE MAILS —The Rival was the only boat which arrived with a mail yesterday. The Vancouver did not make her appearance at all The Hunt did not start for the Cascades, as it was known that the passage of the Columbia could not be effected. The John H. Couch, with the Puget Sound mails, left in the morning, but it is doubtful whether she got as far as the Cowlitz, on account of the blockade

STORING ICE —We observe that some of our enterprising citizens were yesterday engaged in storing a supply of ice for next summer From the uncertain duration of cold weather in these regions, it is much better to secure ice only three inches thick than to secure none at all

AUCTION TO-DAY —A B Richardson will offer at his rooms to-day a lot of crockery and glass ware, which cannot fail to draw out a crowd of purchasers. Read his advertisement in another column, and embrace the opportunity to buy yourselves rich

DROWNED.—At half past eleven o'clock, last night, a man whose name was unknown, but who is supposed to have been intoxicated, walked into the Willamette at the foot of Alder street and drowned before assistance could arrive

CASUALTY —Yesterday morning, in the vicinity of the Methodist church edifice, a cutter collided with a snow-covered log, and capsized three ladies and one gentleman into the snow, "as they went out a sleighing "

BATTLE OF NEW ORLEANS. —The 8th was marked yesterday by a display of Yankee bunting from liberty poles, etc , and by a very fine party in the evening at the Dennison.

ON our fourth page this morning will be found an interesting story of the blockade, entitled "Know who your pilot is " It will well repay perusal

THE mercury raised yesterday from 21° at 7 A M, to 25° at noon, where it remained at 7 o'clock P M At midnight the snow was thawing rapidly

DISCHARGED —The steamers Hunt and Express yesterday finished discharging the California freight they received from the Pacific at St Helens

Masonic Lodge at Bannock City.—A Dispensation has been granted, upon the application of a large number of Free and Accepted Masons resident at Bannock City, I. T., by M. W. John McCraken, Grand Master of Oregon, for a Lodge to be established at Bannock, to be called "Idaho Lodge." The dispensation was issued Jan. 6th, and names Dr. J. A. Raymond, as the first W. M.; Henry Allen, S. W., and John Baker, J. W. It is said the Fraternity numbers one hundred and twenty-five members in that neighborhood.

Snow fell to the depth of five and one half inches on a level, night before last.

MARKET REPORT.

Friday, January 8th, 2½ p. m.

The recent cold weather has effectually checked trade with the Upper Columbia, the steamer being obliged to suspend her daily trips on account of ice. The weather to-day is more moderate, the mercury rising from 27° at 7 o'clock this morning to 25° at 2 p. m., with ten inches of snow on the ground, and more falling. No material difference in prices, and transactions have been quiet and small.

To The Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENTION of the public to the fact, that on the first of May, 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of Income for the year 1863, and as the year 1863 is just ended, it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year, while every thing is fresh in their memory, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor.

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue, persons can only deduct expenses for repairs, etc., from the amount received from the same property on which such expenditure have been made. For instance—a person receives $500 for rents, he can use of that amount all that is necessary to repair such property, from which rents were derived, the same rule applies to steam-boats, saw-mills, and other like property, but all monies derived from interest on notes, Bonds, Mortgages, and from dividends, must be returned as income, although a portion or the whole has been expended in repairing buildings, steamboats, etc.

If persons will prepare their accounts and statements showing amounts received and the source from whence derived, amount expended, and for what purpose, then with the forms and blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor, a correct return can be made.

Know who your Pilot is

STORY OF A BLOCKADE RUNNER THAT WAS TRAPPED

The following story is from a late English magazine. The scene opens at Nassau, which is thus described:

The harbor was crammed with craft of all sorts and sizes, the bay was full of shipping, the little streets were crowded, and there was an unusual stir and turmoil on the quays. It was all for the press of traffic that daily poured in. All this animation, all this activity, had been caused by the Federal blockade of the southern coast, and the cheerful burghers attested the fact that Nassau was the great emporium for contraband of war and smuggled cotton, and that much money was being spent in the island by the employed in the gainful but perilous commerce. Whenever I went into the tavern, grocery store or countinghouse, there was but one all engrossing topic, one common subject of interest—the blockade. Such and such a schooner had been taken, such a brig had been burned, cargo and all, to keep her out of Yankee hands; such a drogher had come in with cotton, such a steamer had got safe to Charleston, with so many thousand stand of arms on board. The Black eyed Susan had been sunk by the United States gunboat Nyper—no, she struck only received four round shot in the hull and had escaped among the sand keys. Who had insured the Delight? They would lose smartly for the vessel had been condemned, whereas the Fly by Night had got into Charleston securely, and her freight of Blakely guns was worth $23,000 net profit.

All this gambling and venturing, this staking of fortunes on the speed of a vessel or the wariness of a captain, was thrillingly exciting to the brokers, merchants, and other speculators who swarmed in the Nassau boarding houses, and who had only a pecuniary interest in the game. And I perceived that the risks nearly balanced the favorable chances; that if many escaped, many were taken, and the loss of a ship was philosophically borne by her owners.

The writer, after some trouble, found a steamer that would take him to Charleston. "When do you start?" he asked of Capt Pritchard—but the writer shall tell his own story:

The commander's voice sunk to a whisper as he told me that at sunset every landsman must come on board, taking boat at some secluded jetty, to avoid prying eyes and using all caution, since Nassau teemed with Northern spies. Half an hour after sundown he was to hoist a signal, which was to be replied to, and then the pilot would come out, and the steamer would stand out to sea.

"After dark," muttered Pritchard with an oath, "we may hope to get past that Yankee thief that hangs about the island. The Governor bade her keep at the distance of one marine league, but she's always sneaking in—now for coal, now for bread, now because her engine's out of order, and the United States Consul communicates with her every day. I tell you, shipmate, there isn't one of us that isn't dogged up and down by rascals in Federal hire. See there! that mulatto hound has been after me these four days," pointing to a dark complexioned fellow in the dress of a stevedore, who, on seeing himself observed, as he stood under the geranium hedge, lay down with wellfeigned nonchalance, and lit his pipe.

I found a good deal of quiet bustle and suppressed excitement on board the Bonnybell. The fires were banked up, the swarthy faces and red shirts of the engineer and his gang were visible at the hatch of their Cyclopean den, getting a breath of the cool breeze before starting. Some brass guns that had been hidden under fruit baskets, hencoops and tarpaulins, were visible enough now, and beside them lay piled little heaps of round shot. The crew bustled to and fro, and the captain was so busy that he could but return a brief word and a nod to my greeting. The sky grew darker and surrounding objects dimmer, every instant.

Before long the passengers arrived. Several Southern gentlemen, a few ladies and children, all making their way back from Europe to their homes in Carolina or Virginia by this dangerous route, and all in peril of harsh imprisonment at least, in the event of capture. By the uncertain light I could see that most of them were pale and nervous, but they talked in an undertone among themselves, and did not appear anxious to enter into conversation with strangers.

"Get up steam!"

By the time the hoarse roar of the escaping vapor grew loud and menacing there was a fresh bustle on deck, and I heard the captain give orders to "stand by" for slipping from the moorings, and to hoist the signal, as we only waited for the pilot.

"There they are, slick and right—three red lights and a green one!" murmured a tall Virginian at my elbow, and looking up I saw the colored lamps glimmer from the masthead. Instantly they were answered by a similar signal from some window on shore.

"We'll soon see the pilot now," said Pritchard, rubbing his hands in a cheery manner; "the signal's made and repeated; in ten minutes our man will be with us. Hillo!—boat ahoy!—what d'ye want?"

"Bonnybell ahoy!" was the rejoinder, in a shrill, harsh voice, cautiously lowered for the occasion; "pilot wants to come on board."

There was a stir and a start of surprise among those on deck, and as a rope was thrown to the boatmen, Capt Pritchard bent over the side, exclaiming:

"You're uncommon quick, my hearty. If you've come from shore since the lights were hoisted, you must be own cousin to the Flying Dutchman. Are you sure you're our pilot?"

"I'm the pilot engaged by Col Jeremy Carter, of Spottsylvania, if that'll do," answered a very tall, bony, black-haired man, as he actively ascended the side. "Zack Foster's my name, and I know every inch about Charleston, where I was raised."

While the captain—reassured by the mention of Col Carter's name—gave hasty orders to cast off the cable and go ahead, I, in common with the rest of the passengers and the unoccupied portion of the crew, looked with much interest at the new comer. The latter was about forty years of age, long and lean of figure, with a hardy, sun browned face. There was no mistaking the resolute air and bearing of the man; his mouth was as firm as iron, though a little dry humor seemed to lurk around his lips, and I hardly liked the expression of his half shut eyes, which had a lazy cunning in their dark glance. Still, though dressed in a black suit of shore going clothes and a swallow tailed coat of antiquated cut, there was something about Mr Zack Foster that bespoke the thoroughbred seaman. He took no share in the proceedings, for his duty did not begin till we were clear of Nassau roadstead, but yet he seemed impatient for the start, gnawing viciously at his quid, and drumming on the taffrail with a finger that seemed as hard and brown as bronze.

It was an anxious time when the Bonnybell, under a full head of steam, went darting out of the Bay, her look outs straining their eyes to pierce the mist, and give warning to the helmsman of vessels ahead, while Pritchard walked to and fro too eager to endure conversation, listening every instant for some sound that was to indicate that the Federal cruiser had taken the alarm. But on we went, without check or hindrance, and we all drew our breath more freely as the lights of the town began one by one to vanish as if the sea had swallowed them, and the dark headlands faded away into obscurity. The American gunboat was neither seen nor felt, a circumstance which I did not the less regret, because I perceived, not only by the display of the cannon alluded to, but by the resolute demeanor of several of the crew, who stood grouped about a couple of uncovered arm chests, that our pigmy foe would not have found an unresisting prize.

One slight circumstance, hardly as I thought, worth mentioning, did occur before we had run half a mile to seaward. There came a long faint hail from so great a distance as to be hardly distinguishable even by a sailor's practiced ear, but which was announced to be addressed to us.

"Some boat, with a message perhaps for a passenger. The lubbers deserve rope's ending for being so late. Can I lie to safely, do you think?" said Pritchard to the pilot irresolutely, and giving the word "Slacken speed!" What the pilot answered I know not. I only caught the concluding phrase—

"Yankee tricks, so, Cap, you'd best look sharp about you."

So Pritchard thought. He gave the word to go on at full speed, and we heard no more about the matter.

The run was speedy and pleasant, over a dimpling summer sea, with no boisterous behaviour on Neptune's part to make even the lady passengers uneasy. We saw several vessels, but none of a hostile character, and the voyage was as agreeable and safe hitherto as any yachting excursion in holiday waters. We were all pleased to be displeased, and the pilot, although a saturnine and morose personage, viewed through this rose colored haze of satisfaction and hope, became a popular man on board. Captain Pritchard pronounced him worth his weight in gold —for if there were no rough [illegible] to [illegible] our purposes, fogs were rather frequent, and the pilot's intimate acquaintance with the [illegible] shoals and islets [illegible] of which were not [illegible] the chart more than once saved the Bonnybell [illegible] an ugly thump and serious damages from hidden obstacles. For an American, Zack Foster was singularly silent, yet there was nothing [illegible] about his high forehead and [illegible] which suggested shrewdness rather than [illegible]. He did [illegible] answered when spoken [illegible].

"Land ho!" sang out the lookout [illegible] the mast head, and Pritchard and the pilot [illegible] peering together over the [illegible] circles looked up, while the passengers [illegible] to hear the news. Pritchard [illegible] while Foster went aloft for a [illegible].

"Edisto Island, as I said, Cap," [illegible] the pilot [illegible] home, gentlemen, and [illegible]."

There was a cheer from the little group [illegible] near the helm, but directly afterwards came the shrill cries of "[illegible]!"

"Uncle Sam's barkers! We must put on [illegible] miles, Cap," said he [illegible] ed the rope ladder.

There were many good glasses on board, and all gazed eagerly through them, and with [illegible] hearts we recognized the [illegible] union the star spangled flag and [illegible] the Federal blockading [illegible] was put about and we stood [illegible] and ships were alike lost to view.

The disappointment of the passengers [illegible] been granted a mere glimpse of the land that to [illegible] was home was considerable. But [illegible] the prudence of delaying our [illegible] Charleston harbor until night, and [illegible] the hostile cruisers. [illegible] on board the Bonnybell that night [illegible] the [illegible] eagerly gazing out [illegible] phosphorescent sea gleaming [illegible] St. Elmo's fires. There was [illegible] mere sickle of silver—in the sky [illegible] so faintly discernible that the utmost caution was necessary. The second mate [illegible] the helm while the first mate superintended the [illegible] heaving of the lead and the captain [illegible] on the forecastle noting the replies [illegible] chanted as they were in a shrill monotone [illegible] once with old custom.

"Ten fathoms sheer! By the deep [illegible] the mark, seven!" called out the leadsman, [illegible] the chains.

"Water allers does shoal here, Cap. I know the channel, though, as well as I know my [illegible] at Nantucket—at Savannah I mean," [illegible] with some confusion.

"By the mark, five," was the next call.

Capt Pritchard here grew uneasy. He did not pretend to equal the pilot in local knowledge, but he was too good a seaman [illegible] the abrupt lessening of the depth of water. He gave orders to reduce the speed, and we moved but slowly on, the lead going as before.

"Are you sure, Mr Foster, you are not mistaken? It seems to me the water shoals at the rate of a fathom for every hundred yards traveled. We may have missed the Swash [illegible] and got into the network of sand banks near [illegible]. Hallo! what's that ahead of us? Boats! [illegible]"

At the same moment the pilot thrust his hand rapidly into the breast of his coat, drew out something and flung it on the deck, where it instantly began to sputter and hiss, and directly afterwards the lurid glare of a blue light flashed through the darkness, showing funnel and rigging, the pale faces of the passengers, the narrow channel of fretted water and the sandy islets on either bow. Nor was this all, for by the ghastly light we could distinguish two dark objects on the foamy sea ahead of us—boats full of men, pulling swiftly but noiselessly towards us, and no doubt with muffled oars.

"By the mark, two! Shoal water—we're aground!" cried an ill boding voice, that of the seaman in the chains, and the Bonnybell came suddenly to a check, throwing most of the landsmen from their feet, while the ominous creaking of the keel told that the steamer was aground. A loud clamor instantly arose, many voices shouting at once in tones of inquiry, dismay, or command, but, above all this turmoil arose the hurrah of those who manned the boats, and who now came dashing up, pulling and cheering like madmen.

"Treachery! treachery!" cried several of the passengers and crew, pointing to where the pilot stood beside the blue light that his own perfidious hand had kindled, while already the man-of-war's men—for such we could not doubt them to be—began to scramble on board.

"The Yankee blood hounds, sure enough, but you shall not live to share the prize money!" exclaimed Pritchard, snatching up a handspike and aiming a blow at Mr Zack Foster that would have been a lethal stroke, had not that astute person swerved aside, receiving the weapon on his left shoulder. Our men set up a faint cheer, and a shot was fired, luckily without effect. But resistance would have been madness, so quickly did the American sailors crowd up our gangway, their pistols and cutlasses ready for the fray, while among them were [illegible] marines, well armed with musket and bayonet, and who drove the Bonnybell's crew below hatches without any serious show of fighting. The Federal lieutenant in command, to do him justice, seemed anxious that no needless violence should be used, and while proclaiming the vessel a prize to the boats of the United States war brig Dorothy, he yet restrained the fury of that precious guide, Mr Zack Foster, who had recovered from the effects of his knock down blow, drawn a bowie knife, and rushed upon Pritchard, who was struggling in the hands of his captors.

"Gently, sir," said the lieutenant, "gently, Quartermaster Fitch. These caged birds are under Uncle Sam's protection, and I cannot allow any ill usage of my prisoners. Do you hear me, sir?"

"Quartermaster!" exclaimed poor Capt Pritchard, as his hands were thrust into the handcuffs, "you don't mean that that double dyed villain, that Judas of a pilot, is a Yankee petty officer after all! I wish I'd only guessed the truth a few hours back, and—if I swung for it—I'd have chucked the spy overboard as I would a mangy puppy."

The lieutenant made no answer, but ordered the captain and mate to be sent below, and proceeded at once to seize the steamer's papers, to place the passengers under arrest and to take steps for getting the Bonnybell off the sand bank. He then compelled the engineer to set the machinery in motion, and we ran down under the skillful pilotage of Mr Fitch, to Edisto Island, in which anchorage we came to our moorings under the guns of the Dorothy, and within a short distance of several other vessels of the blockading squadron.

CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS, 20th Dec., 1855.

DR J C AYER. I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A B MORTLEY, Esq of Utica, N. Y. writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MISS., Feb 7 1856.

BROTHER AYER. I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill and commend your medicine to our people. HIRAM CONKLIN, M.D.

AMOS LEE, Esq, MONTEREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D. ALBION, MONROE CO, IOWA, writes, Sept 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach, but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL. I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours, with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all round us bespeak the high merits of its virtues. —Philadelphia Ledger

Ayer's Cathartic Pills

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use, and certificates of their cures of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.
